DO YOU LOVE TO READ? ENJOY WORKING WITH CHILDREN?

Love to read? Enjoy working with children? Become a ReadingPal! The United Way of Marion County's ReadingPals program has served the children of Marion County since 2012. The students that are served, have been identified as needing additional literacy support. Some of the children served, do not know their alphabet or basic social skills like sitting still when being read to.

Help to instill that joy of reading in kindergarten students with just your investment of one hour on Tuesdays & Thursdays. Volunteers read a book, selected by the school district, that has questions in the back to guide your conversation. There are also vocabulary words that can be used as a seek a word game. Every child that has a ReadingPal will be given a book each week for their home library. This extends the classroom into the home setting as the person who reads to the student will have the focused questions to ask. Just imagine the smile on the student's face when they read their first sentence! Help bring that smile to the kindergarten children of Marion County.

The process to become a ReadingPal is easy. Attend a workshop and pass a background screening. There is no cost to the volunteer for the background screening. Here is a recent video that will give you some insight into the program.
